Main characteristics/features

Phuket pearls (Muk Phuket) are either round or oval in shape with bright white, cream, pink or golden-yellow colours. The oyster farming methods in the area have been inherited by the locals by being passed down from generation to generation.

Geographical area

Phuket and surrounding islands.

Production/processing

Link between product and territory

Phuket and its surrounding islands are located in the Andaman Sea. The tide comes in twice a day and during this time, fresh sea water, rich with marine nutrition, flows into the area, feeding the pearl oysters. The temperature of the sea water is also an essential factor when it comes to the quality of pearls produced in the area.
