Production and processing

Breed: Ninh Thuận lamb meat is taken from indigenous or cross-bred lambs. Lambs are free-ranged 8 – 10 hours per day, from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M. Lambs can be butchered at 8 – 12 months old and 40 – 45 kilogram in weight for rams, or 30 – 40 kilogram for ewes. Butchered lamb can be kept as a whole or splitted into different cuts and packed in vacuum PE bags in freezers at -4°C.

Link between product and territory

Sheep are raised in areas where grass and plants grown under semi-arid conditions as well as in natural grazing meadows and hills. The characteristics of the climate help the sheep wool being always dry and less susceptible to infectious diseases. The suitable weather enables to produce Ninh Thuận lamb and mutton a special taste and good quality.
